

Video Overview: The AI Native Editor

Core Premise

AI won't replace editors. It will widen the gap between button-pushers and creative thinkers.

Key Topics to Cover

The Fear (Address Head-On)

- Editors scared AI will replace them
- That fear is valid... for the wrong editors
- If you're just pressing buttons, you're cooked

The Reality: AI Widens the Gap

- Top 1% editors think like creative directors, not editors
- AI automates repetitive/boring tasks
- More time for creative decisions
- But AI without good creative direction = slop

The Key Insight

- AI needs YOUR creative thinking as input
- That's the skill: giving creative direction to AI
- Same way a client needs your creative direction
- You're the brain, AI is the tool

How You Actually Use AI (Real Examples)

1. Client DNA Builder

- Create custom brand guidelines for clients
- Feed AI the context about client's vibe and style
- Then ask: what sound effect style? What search terms? What colors?

2. Creative Decision Support

- Brain dump your thoughts into AI
- "This music doesn't fit because it's too unstructured and noisy"
- "I need different colors but it clashes with brand guidelines"
- AI proposes solutions you wouldn't think of

3. The Opacity Story

- Tried bunch of different colors, nothing worked
- AI suggested: use opacity instead, keep everything red

- Also suggested circles instead of squares
- Result looked way better

4. Research with Perplexity

- Use REAL things the client talks about, don't make stuff up
- Most editors skip research or bug the client for resources
- Perplexity finds Instagram reels, YouTube videos, context
- Takes 2 minutes instead of hours

The Bottom Line

- AI is an amplifier, not a replacement
 - It amplifies creative thinking (if you have it)
 - It exposes lack of creative thinking (if you don't)
 - Reach top 1% ASAP or get left behind

Stories to Use

- The red animation/opacity solution (AI solved what you couldn't)
 - Research example (finding reels and videos in 2 minutes)
